

There's a lot of talk about "bucket list" trips these days and usually these lists all feature unique, legendary spots around the world.

But current trends show that sometimes, people just want to take a vacation to somewhere more relaxing.

One idea is a group culinary tour in Europe – in Italy alone, each region has its own cuisine. And then there are the wines! Or discover tapas in Spain. Or the wines of Portugal. The options are endless.

New Orleans is famous for Mardi Gras – but did you know there's a spring jazz festival that is a perfect time to visit and sample the Creole and Cajun cuisine while you're there.

New Zealand's diverse North Island features cities, beaches, awesome scenery and great hiking country.

And who knew that Arizona has a wine region? Yes! Amidst the red rocks of Sedona sits the Verde Valley where you can do wine tours and enjoy the unique surroundings.
